

ISA Conference Presentation Considerations

Use of ISA Standards Considerations

- ISA Standards, Recommended Practices or Technical Reports cannot be used or included in their entirety in any presentation, training material or other written material without explicit written permission granted by ISA.
- Fair Use of ISA copyrighted material is allowed by law for non-commercial purposes that do not harm or in any way impact the original owner's ability to profit from or sell their work.
- Excerpts of portions of copyrighted materials beyond a clause or paragraph that may extend beyond Fair Use which you wish to include in your presentation, or any other work should be submitted to permissions@isa.org for approval.
- You must cite credit for the content of any ISA copyrighted material whether included under the terms of Fair Use or explicit permission granted.

Presentation Considerations

Author Rights and Responsibilities

Authors of papers at ISA meetings must grant to ISA a royalty-free, unlimited right to publish the paper and presentation materials, including the right to sell these materials and publish them with an ISA copyright notice. Authors should avoid using the paper and presentation in a manner that directly competes with the technical conference so that ISA has a reasonable opportunity to recover its expenses. ISA allows the author(s) to retain copyright and use of the paper and presentation materials in exchange for rights granted above to ISA. Other non-ISA publications may include abstracts or up to 300-word excerpts of ISA papers provided credits are given to the authors, the meeting, and the Society

Originality of Papers and Presentations

An objective of the Society is to maintain both high technical standards and originality of meeting papers to avoid proliferation of redundant literature. When evaluating papers and presentations, ISA requires the author to attest that neither the paper nor any substantial portion of it has appeared in a generally distributed publication, nor has it been presented at meeting of a non-ISA organization.

Technical program chairs should only repeat papers when there is a substantially different audience than was present for the original presentation, and only if the repeated papers are appropriate to the new program scope. The paper, abstract, and any excerpts from the paper must be clearly identified as a repeat presentation or as an update of an earlier paper containing new information in the program and at the time of presentation. In this case the paper should be clearly identified as “originally presented at [specify event]”.

ISA Conference Presentation Considerations

Author Presentations

Authors are encouraged to present their papers at ISA section, district, and regional meetings before or after presentation at a larger gathering of the Society, so long as these papers will not appear in a nationally or internationally distributed publication as a result of these presentations.

Use of Commercial References

Depending on the meeting or publication involved, the paper or presentation content may cover an original investigation, state-of-the-art survey or tutorial information. However, commercialism is not acceptable. Accordingly, paper or presentation titles and abstracts may not contain company names, trademarks, trade names, or other commercial references. Trade names and trademarks essential to the meaning of information being presented may appear in the body of the paper or presentation when properly footnoted.

Copyright of Material

Proceedings copyright is assigned to ISA. The Society assumes financial responsibility for these publications. (Note: ISA allows the author(s) to retain copyright and use of the paper and presentation materials in exchange for rights granted above to ISA).

All authors are required to follow current ISA author submission guidelines as directed by ISA staff.

A paper that has appeared in print in a generally available non-ISA publication should not be accepted for publication or presentation at a Society-wide meeting, even if copyright protection is waived by the copyright holder. This rule should not be construed to exclude papers that were originally published either as a thesis for an advanced degree, or as articles in a limited-distribution, non-commercial publication. It does exclude articles that have appeared in a generally available non-ISA publication.

Recording of Conference Proceedings

- The recording of presentations at the ISA Calgary 2026 Conference is prohibited.
- The information contained in verbal communication is not subject to copyright protection if it is not recorded in a form agreed upon by the participants participating in the communication. This would include any verbal communication as part of a presentation, fire-side chat or round-table discussion.

Opinions Expressed Disclaimer

It is recommended that presenters consider including a statement at the beginning of their presentation that helps to ensure they avoid any conflicts with past or present employers. Example: “The opinions and perspectives expressed in this presentation are those of the individual(s) providing them and are not associated or attributed to any company they currently or may have previously worked for.”
